Terry Reports On Conclave At Syracuse

A report on the meeting of the Presbyterian Synod of New York held June 17-19 at Syracuse University was given to the Session of the Second Presbyterian Church Tuesday evening by Jonathan Terry Jr., 216 Brookside Ave., a member of the Session who, in the role of elder commissioner from this area, represented the Presbytery of Albany at the synodical conclave. Ministers representing the Presbytery were the Rev. Raymond Lunley of Tribes Hill and the Rev. Willard Rice, Schenectady, who was elected vice moderator of the Synod.

Recommendations of the Synod relating to national and world affairs included an action endorsing the Meecham-Baker bill which would make it illegal to discriminate in the sale or rental of homes and apartments of more than three units.

"We believe," the Synod resolved, "that patterns of segregated housing, the root cause of other forms of discrimination, can only be overcome as persons of minority groups are free to buy, rent and sell without restrictions because of race, color, creed or national origin."

In regard to world peace, the Synod recommended that "the interests of disarmament be placed in an office of the federal government at the level of the assistant secretary of state. We urge that the government express a greater will to accept small gains in the area of disarmament and that very serious consideration be given by the executive and legislative branches to the immediate cessation of testing of nuclear bombs."

Mr. Terry reported that, as a result of the Presbyterian Church's national project, the increase in milk production this year was three times greater than in previous years. The children of Second Presbyterian Church contributed a heifer to this cause.

C of C Approves Tax Compromise With Grossmans

The Board of Directors of the Amsterdam Chamber of Commerce, at a special meeting this morning, unanimously approved a resolution upholding action of the city in the proposed compromising of the Grossman litigation.

The meeting was called by President Thomas Rapello for the purpose of considering the proposed compromise.

The chamber resolution stated:

"Whereas, the Amsterdam Chamber of Commerce after seriously considering the proposed Grossman compromise, and after conferring with many of our citizens and Mayor Gregg, agree that the proposed compromise will be in the best interest and welfare of our citizens and the economic and industrial future of the City of Amsterdam.

"The Amsterdam Chamber of Commerce does hereby approve of the proposed compromise of the Grossman litigation with the City of Amsterdam as recommended by the Mayor's Advisory Council."

President Rapello expressed the opinion that a great deal of credit is due to the city officials and Mayor's Advisory Council who have worked on this problem for some time in an effort to find an equitable solution. This undoubtedly has been one of the most important obstacles in the path of Amsterdam's progress, he said.

Fugitive Sailor Back in Custody

This wedding guest did not have on a wedding garment. In fact, he wasn't even a wedding guest. He was just with the wedding party on Saturday afternoon when the officials came upon the scene. The manner of pickup was considered by some of the church wedding attendants as being unnecessarily harsh, but like so many other judgments that was an opinion formed without the availability of the facts.

Stephen Gaydusek, 20, of 18 Clinton St., Johnstown, had been apprehended by the officials previously on Saturday afternoon and had given them the slip as they were getting into their car. Thus it was that when Navy Recruiting Officer G. L. LePrarie and Detective Victor Stark came upon the fugitive for the second time on Guy Park Ave., the facts were determined that what had happened previously was not going to happen again.

The Johnstown service man, said to have gone "over the hill" on other occasions, was placed in the Montgomery County Jail over the weekend. This morning two huskies of the Shore Patrol of the Brooklyn Navy Yard came to Florida to take back their prisoner.

They were evidently in no mood for another chase. The handcuffs were in use.

U.S. Embassy

Eight U.S. Marines, normally on duty on the top floors, were transferred to the ground floor corridors. Furniture on the two lower floors was moved out.

Russian employees were "given the day off."

A total of 150 Americans, including the wives and children of diplomats, live in the embassy building, mainly in apartments on the middle floors.

Another 50 embassy families are housed elsewhere in Moscow, as are the 12 American news correspondents in Moscow and their families.

There was no expectation among Westerners in the Soviet capital that embassy people themselves would be endangered by any demonstration.

Carpet Workers Start Vacation Period June 30

The annual summer vacation of 2,200 Mohawk Industries Inc. employees will start next Monday for a two-week period. Remaining on their jobs during the period will be members of the plant protection force, powerhouse and home office help.

However, only those persons who are unemployed and ready for work will be eligible for benefits, unlike last year when employees on paid vacation temporarily won the right to collect unemployment benefits.

This year, workers who are getting vacations with pay are not eligible to receive the benefits, nor are employees who take individual vacations or those who take unpaid vacations.

Workers receiving no vacation pay from an employer will receive benefits and workers who receive partial vacation pay are eligible for partial benefits, based on the unpaid portion of the vacation period.

Over 2,200 employees of Mohawk on vacation filed for benefits last year on instructions by their union. A court decision at that time ruled that vacation pay was a bonus for past services rather than a salary and that the persons on vacation could be considered as unemployed during the plant shutdown.

Denied Passports Now Being Issued

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department is issuing passports to three men who had been denied them on the basis of their beliefs or associations.

The department acted under the Supreme Court's June 16 decision that passports could not be withheld for that reason.

The first document was sent Tuesday to Weldon Bruce Dayton, a cosmic ray physicist formerly of Corning, N.Y., and now living on Balboa Island near Long Beach, Calif.

Attorneys for 75-year-old artist Rockwell Kent of Ausable Forks, N.Y., and Dr. Walter Briehl, Los Angeles psychiatrist, were notified that passports would be issued promptly.

Dayton, Kent and Dr. Briehl figured in the court decision. Kent and Dr. Briehl had refused to sign non-Communist oaths, contending that the department had no right to ask the question. Dayton denied he ever had been a Communist but the department, in denying his application, said it had relied on part on confidential information.

Under present law, the State Department lacks authority to deny passports on the basis of beliefs or associations of applicants.

Lebanon

Rebel opposition already is hampering the observers' efforts to check border traffic. One of the most powerful rebel leaders in the mountains barred the observers from territory he controls.

"Our rebellion is a purely internal affair in which the United Nations has no concern," Kamal Jumblatt said Tuesday.

The stout, hook-nosed leader of the Druze sect of mountaineers was interviewed in his village stronghold 16 miles southwest of Beirut. He is one of 13 leaders charged by the pro-Western government with inciting terrorism and rebellion. Other rebel chiefs have been similarly defiant of the U.N. group.

The rebels have been trying since May 10 to overthrow President Camille Chamoun's government. Chamoun said rebel forces were massing in three areas and he feared heavy attacks were imminent.

Day, Chamoun Confer Chamoun conferred for 40 minutes with U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold, who was scheduled to fly back to New York today. He arrived in the Middle East Thursday for talks with officials of Lebanon, the United Arab Republic and the U.N. observation group sent to Lebanon two weeks ago by the Security Council to look for intervention from the neighboring Syrian province of the U.A.R.

Chamoun charged that U.A.R. aid to the rebels has increased lately. If Lebanon is unable to cope with rebel attacks, he said, it will ask the Security Council for a police force.

The Soviet Union warned against an international police force or any other foreign intervention from the West. The official Soviet news agency Tass accused the United States and other Western nations of planning to send troops into Lebanon "under the guise of the United Nations or without any cover at all."

The United States and Britain were reported hoping that Chamoun's government would not call on them for direct aid but would be able to quell the rebellion with its own forces.

Fire Destroys Rickard Barn In Fultonville

FULTONVILLE — A fire in a barn on property owned by May Rickard, Main St., Fultonville, was destroyed in a fire that broke out late last night and again early this morning. The barn was a total loss, and although covered by insurance, some valuable antiques were burned in the conflagration, including a 1916 Model T Ford.

The fire was discovered by Mr. and Mrs. George Donaldson, neighbors, on Union St., at about 10:45 p.m. last night. The Aetna Engine Co., No. 1 and 2, Fultonville and Fonda Fire Dept., answered the first call. Firemen left when the blaze was believed to be out.

The flames broke out for the second time at about 4:45 this morning and the department was called again. This time the barn was completely destroyed, although the efforts of the fire department prevented any damage to neighboring structures, including the Maples Motel, nearby.

Two Complete Albany Course

Mrs. Raymond Miknavich and Mrs. Joseph Bobinas of St. Casimir's parish of this city were among the 43 graduates who received completion certificates at the first graduation exercises of the lay teacher training course in Christian doctrine and catechetical methods in the Albany Diocese which took place Saturday at the College of St. Rose, Albany.

The Very Rev. Msgr. John J. Forman presided at the ceremonies with the Rev. John J. Malecki, spiritual director of Mater Christi Seminary, as guest speaker.

Stressing the importance of the layman's help in parishes, Msgr. Forman pointed out the great service the lay teachers render in assisting the priests and sisters in giving religious instruction to children of the parish who do not attend parochial schools.

The course was conducted by the Rev. George St. John, diocesan director of the C.C.D., at the college on Saturday afternoons during the year.

Mrs. Miknavich and Mrs. Bobinas plan to attend a second course which will start in the fall.

A return to consciousness while under open heart surgery is a good idea because it allows the doctors to check on whether patient's brain is being damaged while the machine is taking over the job of the heart.

With hypnosis, a smaller amount of anesthetic was needed to put the patient to sleep and it enabled the doctor to restore her to slumber after once awakening her.

She then was put to sleep again by suggestion and came through the operation in good shape. Twenty days later she left the hospital.

An account of the operation was given in a paper before the American Medical Assn. by Dr. Milton Marmer, who handled the anesthesia and did the hypnotizing.

Girl Awakened During Surgery

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A teenager with her heart opened was awakened on the operating table to demonstrate the value of hypnosis in surgery, a Beverly Hills doctor reported today.

While her heart was out of commission and her blood was being pumped by a machine, the 14-year-old girl opened her eyes and responded repeatedly to the doctor's instructions, he said.

She then was put to sleep again by suggestion and came through the operation in good shape. Twenty days later she left the hospital.
